The screenshot displays the fifth EnEf newsletter, which is a multi-page document. The main content is organized into several sections:

- Quality Indicators: Located on the left side, it discusses the quality management plan of the project, the role of the coordinator, and the importance of quality indicators in the project's success.
- Results of the quality assessment: This section features the EnEf logo and a sub-section titled "Evaluation of project management and meetings". It states that the results of the evaluation of project management do not differ significantly between the two assessment periods (2012-2011 and 2012-2012). It lists several key findings:
  - The working meetings have been frequent enough.
  - They are satisfied with the meetings.
  - The coordinating team has a very good attitude.
  - The work packages are effectively managed by the lead partners of each IP.
  - The skills and expertise of the project partners is properly utilized to meet the objectives of the work package.
  - The work plan has been respected and the changes to the work package have been discussed and agreed by the participants.
- Final evaluation of the project management: This section includes a bar chart showing the results of the final evaluation of project management across various criteria.
- Evaluation of transnational cooperation: This section discusses the general remarks on transnational cooperation, noting that it is assessed positively and very positively by all partners. It mentions that the internet has been established from the beginning of the project and is used for communication and collaboration. It also includes a sub-section titled "Final evaluation of the transnational cooperation" with a bar chart showing the results of the final evaluation of transnational cooperation across various criteria.
- Evaluation methodology: Located on the right side, it describes the methodology used for the evaluation, including the use of questionnaires and the involvement of all partners.
