

There are no translations available.

ILI - Institut für Lern-Innovation
Friedrich-Alexander-Universität Erlangen-Nürnberg

Jens Geyer
Nägelsbachstr. 25b
91052 Erlangen

Germany
Phone: +49 9131 852 1149
E-Mail: jens.geyer@fim.uni-erlangen.de Web: www.fim.uni-erlangen.de

The Innovation in Learning Institute is located in the city of Erlangen in the northwest of Bavaria in Germany.

As a research institute at the faculty of Philosophy of the University Erlangen-Nürnberg, ILI has been involved in technology-enhanced learning research and development activities since 1986. The institute develops innovative learning systems including pedagogy, content, support and technology, starting from user needs analysis, pedagogical and technical implementation up to evaluation and valorization, in a spirit of self-determined life long learning.

ILI has an interdisciplinary team of 20 staff members, embedded in a full scale university with about 4800 employees and 27.300 students. ILI has been co-ordinating and participating in numerous projects at regional, national and European level.

Main fields of action include:

applied research

development

consultancy

evaluation

in the area of new technologies in education, training, and eLearning.